What is it?

This highly specialized training program has been specifically designed for the real estate professionals by a real estate professional. The techniques taught in the violence prevention program are easy to learn and incorporate into your own situational needs. These techniques are verbal de-escalation principles to help in situations that range from verbal abuse to physical self-defense. The strategies are derived from SAFE International™ and are taught to persons in high risk professions such as yours.

This training is not just for women – men are 60% more likely to be attacked than a woman and due to the type of violence men encounter, they are at a higher risk of life threatening injury and death.

This is pure and applied self-defense, not martial arts techniques.
